ANJEC The EQ Challenge Game

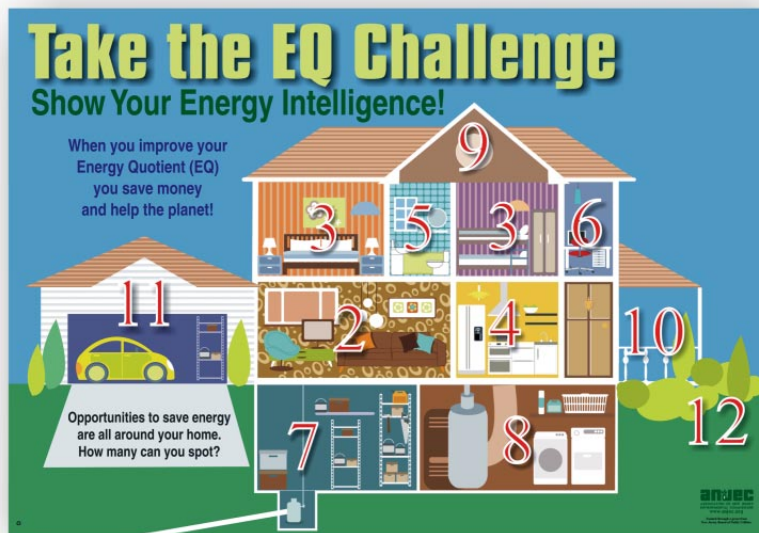

The EQ Challenge is a new game designed to attract visitors to your event booth and get them thinking about ways to conserve energy.

Working with the Hopewell Township Environmental Commission, ANJEC developed this game as part of an energy conservation awareness campaign with funding from the Board of Public Utilities. Several environmental commissions have tested it at local events and told us it was helpful in attracting booth traffic and helped them engage people in conversation.

The game includes:

- ✓ A 28" x 39" full-color poster/game board
- ✓ 2 foam dice (2" cubed, assorted colors)
- ✓ A color brochure featuring a miniature version of the game board graphic with instructions for playing the game at home. Also included are common answers and a list of money-saving resources for making homes more energy efficient.

ANJEC member municipalities are eligible to receive limited quantities of the game elements at no cost except for shipping and handling. To order, please provide the following information:
